

Letter from the Editors

Dear Reader,

Once again, we are excited to present you with a collection of amazing academic work from the field of Science, Technology, and Society (STS). In the second issue of the tenth volume of Intersect, a wide variety of interesting topics are explored, such as the impact of social media on international affairs and the impact of clinic design on patient care. We were also privileged to receive a wide variety of features. In addition to an interview with the Dean of the Stanford School of Education and a book review about a work examining the impact of values on scientific understanding, we are also including a small collection of art inspired by neurobiology. This art is the first feature of its kind we are publishing, and we are planning to publish similar STS-inspired artistic features in future publications. We believe that the work highlighted in this issue is a fantastic start.

This issue is only possible through the dedication of our amazing team of editors. New and old editors worked on this volume, and through their hard work, the issue grew from a collection of academic work into a cohesive whole. In addition, our journal's advisor, Professor John Willinsky, as well as the Program in Science, Technology, and Society at Stanford University, have helped ensure our continued growth through their unwavering support. We cannot thank any of these individuals and organizations enough.

Editors 2016-17:

Raga Ayyagari
Brian Chu (Senior Editor)
Lara Elcavage
Ian Gunady
Callie Hoon
Joyce Kang (Editor-in-Chief)
Aviva Klein Meyers (Senior Editor)
Cindy Liu
Joseph Nicolls (Editor-in-Chief)
Christina Pan
Travis Ramirez
Katie Welgan

Graphic Designer Winter 2016-2017:

Jeramiah Mario-William Winston

Peer Reviewers:

Andrew Baker	Isabel Goronzy
Julian Bava	Daniel Gutierrez
Gabriel Bianconi	Thorn Hall
Ted Bloch-Rubin	Sam Jackson
Annika Brakebill	David Johnson
Max Chang	Gabriella Johnson
Albert Chon	Eric Lin
Emma Daugherty	Fan Liu
Ryan Devens	Marlo Kohn
Brian Do	Zouhair Mahboubi
Maggie Engler	Shelby Parks
Jenna Forsythe	Sophia Stefan
Charlotte Franzellin	Kaelyn Varner
Noa Glaser	Benjamin Yeh
Theodore Glasser

Warm Regards,

Joyce Kang & Joseph Nicolls
Editors-in-Chief

Intersect: The Stanford Journal of Science, Technology, and Society