

Letter from the Editors

Dear reader,

It is with immense excitement that we announce Volume 16, Number 1 of Intersect, the first issue of the 2022-2023 academic year. In this issue, our authors tackled topics from communicating climate science to TikTok's influence on productivity to barriers to enhancing online education. Three of our editors also conducted interviews with scholars from Stanford Law School and the Stanford Departments of Chemical Engineering and English, evaluating topics such as biomedical ethics, sustainability, and storytelling.

Intersect is only possible due to the hard work and commitment of our team and those who contribute to the journal. We would like to thank Professor John Willinsky, our journal's advisor and the Kholsa Family Professor and Associate Dean for Student Affairs at Stanford's Graduate School of Education, for his unwavering support, especially throughout the intricacies of a hybrid online/in-person education. We would also like to recognize the invaluable contribution from our peer reviewers, whose thoughtful and informed reviews ensure our journal's high quality. A huge thank you to our creative and talented graphic designer Marian Walker who brings our authors' articles to life through her illustrations. And finally, we would like to thank our editorial team for their hard work, enthusiasm, and care that they put into this issue. We brought on 8 new members this year, and they met each task ahead of them with grace and passion.

And with that, we proudly present Volume 16, Number 1 of Intersect.

Cover Artist Autumn 2022-2023: Marian Walker

Warm regards,

Editors for Autumn 2022

Morgan Cortina

Eddie Dilworth

Jenny Han

Julia Hernandez

YuQing Jiang

Sandi Khine

Eric Markarian

Kristine Pashin

&

Alexis Tran

Sidra Xu

Editors-in-Chief

Intersect: The Stanford Journal of Science, Technology, and Society
intersect.stanford.edu