Letter from the Editors

Dear reader,

It is with immense excitement that we announce Volume 17, Number 2 of Intersect, the second issue of the 2023-2024 academic year. In this issue, our authors tackled topics such as social media's impact on body image, the ethics of clinical trials, and the ethical controversy of CRISPR biotechnology.

Intersect is only possible due to the hard work and commitment of our team and those who contribute to the journal. We would like to thank Professor John Willinsky, our journal's advisor and the Kholsa Family Professor and Associate Dean for Student Affairs at Stanford's Graduate School of Education, for his unwavering support. We would also like to recognize the invaluable contribution from our peer reviewers, whose thoughtful and informed reviews ensure our journal's high quality. A huge thank you to our creative and talented graphic designer Christina Lee who brings our authors' articles to life through her illustrations. And finally, we would like to thank our editorial team for their hard work, enthusiasm, and care that they put into this issue. With that, we proudly present Volume 17, Number 2 of Intersect.
