

Letter from the Editors

Dear reader,

We are excited to present you with the first issue of our tenth volume of Intersect. For this volume, we have received an unprecedented number of submissions to our publication, and we are thrilled to present the best of undergraduate and graduate research and thought in the field of STS. In this issue, several fascinating and diverse topics are discussed, such as the credibility of scientific studies, the relationship between a person's resources and the opportunities available for international entrepreneurship, and the social issues surrounding the study of microbiomes. In addition, we have some wonderful features for you this issue, such as an interview with the extraordinarily talented Prof. Margot Gerritsen and a book review about a critical work in the history of science and medicine.

This issue would not have been possible without the extraordinary work of our wonderful staff. We have several returning editors from our last volume as well as some new members that have provided both critical work and key insights that have helped grow Intersect both as a publication and an organization. We would also like to, once again, thank Professor John Willinsky, the journal's advisor and Director of the Program in Science, Technology, and Society at Stanford University. Our continued work would be impossible without his continued guidance.

Editors 2016-17:

Raga Ayyagari
Max Chang (Senior Editor)
Brian Chu (Senior Editor)
Callie Hoon
Joyce Kang (Editor-in-Chief)
Aviva Klein Meyers (Senior Editor)
Cindy Liu
Joseph Nicolls (Editor-in-Chief)
Christina Pan
Travis Ramirez

Graphic Designer 2016-2017:

Jeramiah Mario-William Winston

Peer Reviewers:

Ena Alvarado	Joe Hack	Emily Pang
Shaleen Brawn	Brian Hall	Thomas Rasmussen
Heather Brink- Roby	Thorn Hall	Madeleine Rowell
Jaqueline Brinn	Annie Hu	Vishnu Shankar
Brianna Brown	James Hu	Divya Siddarth
Christine Chen	Javarcia Ivory	Max Suechting
Ryan Devens	Tiffany Jiang	Ruth Tennen
Harry Elliott	Zeleena Kearney	Melody Ting
Walter Falcon	Avner Kreps	Lark Trumbly
Divya Gopisetty	Peter Lee	Jazzmin Williams
Stanley Gu	Meredith Manda	Shannon Wu
Daniel Gutierrez	Mark McGurl	Irena Yamboliev
	John McNelly

Warm Regards,

Joyce Kang & Joseph Nicolls,
Editors-in-Chief

Intersect: The Stanford Journal of Science, Technology, and Society intersect.stanford.edu